

How to Clear the Key Bridge in 2-3 Weeks

March 27,

Today, as I was observing images of the collapsed Key bridge, I had an impression/download from above about how the wrecked bridge can be cleared from the shipping lane in maybe 2-3 weeks.

(1) Remove the shipping containers from the cargo ship DALI and use it as a platform for installing the needed crane machinery; (2) Simultaneously, cut the bridge fragments into small-enough fragments; (3) use DALI to lift and carry the fragments to port. ^{DALI is} It's already barged up.

Once that task is done, DALI could be used as a ferry for the semi traffic that can't use the two tunnels under the water.

This could help DALI's owner to recoup their reputation and help restore what they broke.

Engineers can work out the details of the logistics/strategy.

Perhaps the reason why it was given this "download" for what seems to me to be a simple solution to mitigate the severity of this problem is because I've been pondering on the situation quite a bit since first hearing the news yesterday morning on ~~A~~ TND at San Mountain. I had the impression to look up the ASCII sum of "Key Bridge Collapse" = 1769, looking up Old and New Testament def's H 1769 and G 1769 and their vicinity to see if there might be relevance. There is - major resonance. I'll be doing a blog write-up on it in the next couple of days.

A 1769 is removed from 1776 - Fitting for a bridge named after Francis Scott Key, the author of the national anthem - in jeopardy of sudden collapse if we don't report sufficiently.

Briefly, here are some highlights: from the (Strong's '07) OT: "H 1758 break, tread down; H 1760 push down, drive away, drive on, totter; H 1761 as being struck; H 1762 a push, i.e. fall, falling; H 1763 fear, make afraid; H 1765 haster, pressed on; H 1766 to press, thrust; H 1767 too much; H 1768 now, seeing; H 1769 pinning; H 1770, I fish; H 1772 ~~is~~ rapid, vulture." And in the NT vicinity: "G 1758 entangle with; G 1764 imperil, instigate, be at hand; G 1769 silent from astonishment, speechless."

p.s. Put Pres. Trump's people in charge. They'd make quick, excellent work of this.
