

ItndComing.org > Blog > Tudor >

Tuesday Morning Theophany Musings

by Sterling D. Allan, 228033

To: Tudor Dixon

Dec. 19, 2023; Tuesday (~7:30am start)

As indicated at the end of yesterday's blog article, "112 AB: Jan. 12 Wedding to Tudor," after hearing Tudor's 3-hour radio segment as substitute host on Jesse Kelly's radio show — my fav, btw (she did a great job), and seeing absolutely no indication that she has read any of my material, my faith that this timeline scenario I've been setting forth in recent articles will actually materialize plummeted. I concluded that this has been yet another practice run, that enough people have stepped forward to resist evil to buy us yet more ^{time,} so the Christmas day EMP attack won't happen then. (It's not off the table until we evolve the s.c.). And I'm anxious/excited to see how things could become even more grand than the scenario I set forth to Tudor in these recent articles.

However, this morning, several things have given me indications that this present scenario could yet unfold. One of them is super-strong (Tudor & Tuesday), bumping my faith that the theophany will materialize, from ~20% → 80%.

First, at ~4:30am, I was prompted to go ahead and look up the vicinity words for "Christmas" in WOT. I'd thought of doing this 2-3 days ago, but finally did it this morning. The thing that jumped out at me is that the def. close to immediately before "Chrst" is "chow hall." That's the exact wording we use for where us inmates eat our meals, if we don't get lay-in trays

(I do, so I can eat when indicated as a ~~T-1~~ diabetic; during fasting I trade ~~my~~ them 3/envelope w/postage). When I saw that, the ^{antonym} impression I had was that I should continue my fast today. That boosted my confidence a little.

Then, around 7am, when I belatedly read today's Sapphires scripture ref., 1 Thes 3:18 "In everything give thanks...", I took that as timely advice to think of all the wonderful things that have brought me to this place. That bumped my faith a little more.

At 7:25 am, I looked up "Tudor" (again) in Oxy to see the vicinity def.s. When I saw that the def. immediately after it is "Tuesday," which is 12/19, today, the day I see being the historic theophany that will flip the course of society's trajectory from rock bottom to going straight to the kingdom of heaven on earth; my faith jumped from about 20% to 80%. That's huge.

At a minimum, it further ~~sa~~ solidifies that Tudor is indeed foreordained to do this. &

It's now 9:04 am, so I'm going to put this in the mail and pray for it to be t'p'd to Tudor, so she gets it in time to read before the & 9:25 am theophany scheduled by God. Will she be all-in, synced up by then?

My blood sugar at psil line time was 2:56 99 — close to 100% — all in, indicating to me that she's very close.

Let's do this! ☺

Jolly

ps. If it doesn't happen at 9:25 am, I'll keep pursuing until midnight, eastern.