(8) Movie "Battle of the Bulge" Henry Fonda [advantage of having actual equipment. Soldiers being shot scenes corny, unrealistic. Featured heroic pushback against Final Nazi assault. Nazi worship / veneration of war for war's sake.]

(2)

(9.8) Young Sheldon ^{CBS} (2nd) Final episode/hour. [Deeply moving^(tears often). George's funeral, reflections on life. Sheldon not stepping up, remorse for that. Production was extremely well done / brilliant, ^{emotionally} spiritually^{ly}-deep. Imagine what we'll be able to produce biography-wise wise with the IT. Sheldon might be the smartest man alive, but he is ^{nearly} the furthest thing from spiritually wise.]

(9) Law & Order, SVU "Duty to hope" - Olivia (Fighting serial rapist, former military)

Institute (3 Nov. 20-22) I pointed out that 21:14 depicts an EMI event, and this past weekend God gave us a shot across the bow with the coronal mass ejection (CME) from the sun that didn't hit us directly, but the position we did receive (disrupted some communications), and caused northern lights as far down as Mexico.

Dilemma: How do we incrementally ease people into a fire hydrant gusher paradigm. 0 to 60 in 2.5 sec.s. (metaphorically speaking, of course)
