Tips for Reading & Appreciating None to One (Book)

No, my new book, None to One: Evolving the Repentance Clause of Prophecy, is not a usual book in any way. I consider it to be one of the most important books ever written. Its purpose is to prevent our civilization from crashing to rock bottom—which is its present trajectory. Additionally, its purpose is to also set forth how we can go straight to the kingdom of heaven on earth. Those are not just good objectives, but they are achievable.† Can you think of any other book that tackles these objectives? I can't think of any. The scriptures set these things forth but not spelled out with the plainness that I provide in this book.

When I speak of "plainness" or clarity (back cover page), that doesn't mean it's easy to understand. This is not casual reading. It requires full attention and zeal to be appreciated. Ponder on what I'm saying. Don't be in a hurry. As you read the definitions I cite, think about the meaning of each word and its relevance to the topic at hand. The slower you read, the faster the inspired thoughts will come to you.

Yes, my material is way outside the box of usual thinking, but I set forth solid scripture-based support for what I say. If you can see that I make a valid point, embrace it — plant that seed <sup>in</sup> your heart, nourish it, let it grow, and as you eventually partake of its good fruit you will know for yourself that it is true and good.

My intended audience is those who will become joint heirs of Christ, also called the ChafFB (Church of the Firstborn) by following the four-word prescription: all-in, synced up = all in with their unique mission in life in the body of Christ, and synced up with God's guidance, power, and wisdom in all that they do. <sup>4</sup> This is something that everyone can achieve — and I'm confident that eventually everyone will achieve this. So, really, everyone is my intended audience, though I realize that few are presently ready for this message in full.

Please do what you can to implement and spread this message so it can be manifest into reality — heaven on earth, with crashing first.
