Recently, the iconic Elon Musk was involved in a Twitter exchange, asking him if he might consider starting his own social media platform. His ^{x.com} response amounted to a "maybe." ^{If I understand right,} In seeing that, I had the thought (inspiration?) to the effect of MAGA patriots courting Musk to put some of his talent and money behind either Gettr or Truth Social forums.

On the down side, with him being perceived to being part of the BigTech ogres by some, there is likely to be a fear that he would flip ^{either} these patriot social engines to the dark side. But remember, what he wants to do with Twitter is to make it First Amendment friendly again. That took major caissons (su?) in this day of woke cancel culture. It did not win him friends with the Marxists. Quite the contrary. You might say he chose sides, even stating that he planned to vote Republican henceforth — or something to that effect.

Remember, Pres. Trump is also a billionaire, former Democrat voter/supporter. People can and do change. ^(repent) Isn't that what God wants us to foster?

Imagine knighting Musk as a M.A.G.A. hero. He's not there yet, but with rallying from the ultra M.A.G.A. enthusiasts, I can't help but think we could fully win him over. I imagine Elon Musk as a keynote speaker at an upcoming CPAC conference, fully zealous for freedom and God's grace. It would be a bit like seeing the apostle Paul, after his stint as Saul, but with a more gradual flip. Except I've always admired Musk, dismissing his (rare) political positions as to be expected of the Big Tech lions. Wouldn't it be great to completely win him over to God and Freedom?

I see a cascade of such conversions coming in the near future. He could become a model for ^{hundreds of} millions of others to follow and appreciate.

I feature him in a fun way (teleport Mars via ^{module} sphere) in my book, None to One: Evoking the Repentance Clause of Prophecy, available at EdComfy.com.
