    Conservatives intuitively know that the gender fluidity movement is Satanic, and stand opposed to it. But I've not been hearing a very important point regarding the attempts to change gender by hormonal treatment and surgery.

    Gender is extremely deeply seated genetically; involving how bones develop; how muscles and tendons develop; how the brain develops; how the uterus develops in a woman; how the hormonal system develops; the widespread influence throughout the body of estrogen, testosterone, and other hormones; not to mention the complexity of the development of the genitals and breasts, and the menstral cycles; as well as the emotional /psychological /mental development over time from conception to adulthood.

    Of the approximate 32.7 trillion cells in the average adult body, I would estimate that approximately 15% to 20% are influenced by genetic gender.

    It's not just a matter of inny vs. outy. Surgery of those aspects is just a portion of what it means to be a man or a woman. Hormonal therapy, likewise, only effects a portion of femininity or masculinity. Meanwhile, the side-effects of tinkering with what shouldn't be tinkered with only leads to monstrous side effects.

Gender is not forced on us. We choose it before our bodies are formed. (We're the ones who sign off on the body we'll incarnate into, and the strengths and weaknesses that our body will present as part of our mortal probation. (Jer. 1:5; Eph. 1:4.)

It's only a tiny number who incarnate into bodies that have gender-based malfunctions that rightfully require surgical and or hormonal intervention.

The gender fluidity craze is also creating and exacerbating mental health trainwrecks. ...on ≠ The gender fluidity movement will be one ( ) of the most difficult evils to undo when we finally repent as a society.
