

Precious Metals Will be Inexhaustibly Abundant in the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth

Based on the "supply v. demand" concept, the monetary value of precious metals is a function of its scarcity. Historically, precious metals have been scarce.

Preparedness-minded people have long invested in precious metals as a safe haven for possible economic disruptions and the likelihood of the value of the dollar collapsing. Precious metals can be used for bartering in an economic melt-down scenario.

In anticipating the conditions in the coming kingdom of heaven on earth, I see some bad news outweighed by good news for those who have purchased precious metals to have as a buffer for the expected hard days ahead. The bad news for them is that in the coming kingdom of heaven on earth, (which, in my r.c. scenario could begin unfolding in months from now, if not weeks); precious metals will no longer be scarce, so their monetary value will be reduced significantly. Teleportation (see my 8/23 editorial, "Teleportation as a Pending Gift of the Spirit") will enable us to mine asteroids as well as other planets (in a sustainable manner); as well as have commerce with planets that already have these metals in abundance. The II ("two", see my 8/29 editorial, "We'll Never Know" = Not So") will enable us to find where accessible metals are located — anywhere in the universe (AF 13). So nothing, including present "precious metals," will be rare. Ditto "rare earths."

This brings to mind that joke about a man who bragged to an angel that he had a bar of gold. The angel responded, "A paving stone?" So, that's the bad news.

The good news is that by evoking the repentance clause (r.c.) of prophecy, we'll avert the rock-bottom collapse that you've been saving these precious metals for; and the abundance society that emerges will be full of opportunities to thrive. Your stepping forward with prophetic insight to be prepared for hard times makes you much more likely to be an all-in, synced up member of the joint heirs of Christ / Church of the Firstborn (ChofFB) — early adapter. As such, your self-designed residence in the New Jerusalem (S.V. — see my book, None to One: Evoking the Repentance Clause of Prophecy, available from IndComing.com) will be secured, at a value much greater than your precious metal(s) cache.
