Several TV & radio hosts have been pointing out an aspect of huge vulnerability in the progressives' moves away from nuclear and coal while also forcing adoption of electric vehicles (EVs), thus diminishing <sup>grid</sup> power production, while significantly increasing demand—a recipe for disaster.

I've got a different take on this. I would argue that as we as a society continue on the revival path we're on, turning back to God & goodness, then God will remove the damper that has been on the emergence of the myriad of exotic free energy technologies that harness the wheelwork of nature inexpensively. Free energy is about freedom. Once we deserve it, we'll get it, in spades.

Imagine putting one of these devices—compact—in your electric vehicle, keeping the batteries topped off. Never have to stop to recharge. Otto electric planes, jets, boats, ships, drones, toys, trains. Battery weight and size is no longer an issue.

To illustrate how close we are to this, here is the conclusion of a <sup>recent</sup> article, "The Pandora Paradox" that my brilliant engineer friend and associate, Mike Waters writes:

"We have working open system technologies that tap unlimited sources of pollution-free quantum energy. They are not only ready to implement, they should have emerged 100 years ago. I am working with several different systems. These technologies basically obsolete all current sources of energy and are fully scalable from powering cell phones to cities."

What's beautiful about this is that the Marxist conspirators have intaded this to crash America, but if we repent, God is set to Flip it to our blessing.
