There are many key factors that contribute to a pivotal election win or loss as we saw in the Walker v. Warnock runoff in Georgia, Dec. 6. But I think a caller, Antonette (sp?) on John Frederick's RAV TV show at ~5:23 am Mountain, nailed it when she said that the core solution is God. We need to turn back to God. This coincides with my 8/14 editorial, "Core Remedy = Repentance."

The more of us repent, the more clearly we'll be able to see what needs to be fixed, and we'll be able to be effective in correcting what's wrong. This could include proving election cheating and replacing bogus winners with the legitimate victors, as was done in 1916, as pointed out by Christina Bobb on Steve Grabber's RAV show on Dec. 6, 12:00-14:00 Mountain. This could apply to governor candidates: Kari Lake, Tudar Dixon, Don Buldoc; senate candidates: Blake Masters, J. D. Vance, Kelly Tshibaha, Dr. Oz, Herschell Walker; congressional candidates: Joe Kent, Sarah Palin, Karoline Leavitt, etc.; secretary of state candidates: Mark Finchem, Jim Marchant, Kristina Karamo, Audrey (NM); and attorney general candidates: Abe Hamadeh, etc.

There was a red wave. It was stolen—not because we didn't do enough, but because we'd not repented enough.

Yes, we should be earnest and vigilant to stop things such as (A) Google's algorithms that identify liberals and left of centrists to remind them to vote, while giving no such reminder to conservatives, resulting in millions more turning out for the left (see Robert Epstein's 11/16-21 Epoch Times article "How Google Stopped the Red Wave," pp. A-13,14); as well as (B) their search results that favor leftist content while snuffing MAGA content—(C) the same bias as seen in legacy media; (D) Dominion voting machines being programmed to skew results in key races; and (E) hundreds of other cheating mechanisms.

Blindness to these forces is a function of non-repentance. Denial is a classic diagnostic attribute of addicts (to sin, generally). The remedy is repentance, made possible by Jesus Christ.

If we don't want to hit rock bottom as a society—our present trajectory is definitely on the brink of that collapse—then we must repent. I elaborate on this option extensively in my book, None to One: Evoking the Repentance Clause of Prophecy available from ITndComing.com.
